RE: CFE Platform Change Matrix and Technical Specifications

CBOE Futures Exchange, LLC (CFE) has published a Platform Change Matrix and Technical Specifications regarding the migration of CFE's trading system to Bats technology. The Platform Change Matrix contains an overview of key platform specific features that will be added, retained, modified, or removed from CFE's trading system in connection with the migration. The Technical Specifications include specifications that will apply to CFE upon migration to Bats technology.

CFE previously published an Integration Plan Overview and a Technical Integration FAQ regarding the migration.

The Integration Plan Overview includes technology integration highlights; information regarding data centers, order entry, and market data feeds; target dates for the CFE integration; and contact information.

The Technical Integration FAQ provides answers to frequently asked questions relating to general topics, technology and integration, the certification process, market data, and billing.

All of these documents are available at <http://batsintegration.cboe.com/cfe>.
